Understanding cables

Every cable message consists of three parts:

- The top box shows each cables unique reference number, when and by whom it originally was sent, and what its initial classification was.
- The middle box contains the header information that is associated with the cable. It includes information about the receiver(s) as well as a general subject.
- The bottom box presents the body of the cable. The opening can contain a more specific subject, references to other cables (browse by origin to find them) or additional comment. This is followed by the main contents of the cable: a summary, a collection of specific topics and a comment section.

To understand the justification used for the classification of each cable, please use this WikiSource article as reference.

Discussing cables

If you find meaningful or important information in a cable, please link directly to its unique reference number. SUBJECT: THE FARC IN mexico Classified By: POL Officer Frank Penirian. Reasons 1.4 (b) and (d).

1. (U) Summary. The death of at least four Mexican nationals during the recent Colombian attack on a Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC) camp in Ecuador has raised concerns about the FARC's continued presence in Mexico. The Mexican government has denied any involvement in the attack, but the FARC has claimed responsibility. The FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
2. (U) Five Mexican nationals were present at the FARC camp in Ecuador where the organization's number two Raul Reyes was killed by Colombian forces. The Mexican government has denied any involvement in the attack, but the FARC has claimed responsibility. The FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
3. (C) Given FARC's historical presence in Mexico, questions about its current political activities are reasonable. Mexico invited the organization to attend a peace conference in Havana, Cuba, in 2016, but the FARC has not yet responded. The Mexican government has denied any involvement in the attack, but the FARC has claimed responsibility. The FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
4. (U) The office's principal reportedly relocated to Cuba but maintained ties to members of Mexico's hard left. According to Mexican academic sources, the FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
5. (S/NF) CISEN officials, however, have discounted such links and in particular say they have ruled out a FARC connection to the recent bombing. The Mexican government has denied any involvement in the attack, but the FARC has claimed responsibility. The FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
6. (C) ICE, ATF and DEA do not have any open cases involving the FARC in Mexico. Organization members have been tied loosely to several Mexican groups, but the FARC has not been implicated in any specific cases. The Mexican government has denied any involvement in the attack, but the FARC has claimed responsibility. The FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
7. (C) Comment. Initially, the Mexican public expressed outrage at the killing of Mexican nationals in Colombia's raid on the guerrilla camp in the state of Choco. The Mexican government has denied any involvement in the attack, but the FARC has claimed responsibility. The FARC has been active in Mexico for many years, and its influence in the country remains significant. The attack has caused outrage in Mexico and has raised questions about the FARC's continued relevance in the region.
